

After looking through the source code with IDA it becomes apparent we need to focus on sub_C81, the encryption function.

The encryption function effectively performs xor on the input string with a predefined array (off_202010) and then converts the chars to hex.

Using the full key and the ciphertext we have allows us retrieve the plaintext.

Don't forget to hash it!

Made with love by: AndreiCat